From the President’s Corner

Exhibits Galore and More!

In less than a week, (May 1, 10 AM to Noon to be exact) many of us will be dropping off paintings for MAPS’ 2nd Annual Judged Exhibit at the Conference Center Gallery of J. Sargeant Reynolds Community College. This will be a huge show for us – 70 paintings from 36 artists. I can’t wait to see it hanging and I wish all of the participants the best of luck. If you are exhibiting in this show, please contact Janet Clement, Sharon Beaver, or Linda Wolitz to let them know how you can help them with this exhibit. Please refer to Janet’s April 17 memo to exhibitors to see what we need from you.

But the Exhibit Chairs, Janet, Sharon, and Linda, aren’t resting on their laurels now that the JSRCC exhibit is so close to happening. Last week, they joined me on a visit to our next venue, the Fredericksburg Center for the Creative Arts (FCCA), where we’ll exhibit this fall. The theme will be “For the Love of Pastels.” We are happy to exhibit in a new city, particularly because we have a number of members who live in this part of the state. Kathleen Willingham met us at the gallery; she will chair this exhibit with the assistance of several artists who live in the Fredericksburg area, and with support from the Exhibit Chairs. The gallery’s curator, Carrol Morgan, gave us a tour of the gallery and explained how they handle exhibits.

The venue is a wonderful building from the 1700s located in the historic downtown, adjacent to the river. The FCCA does a great job publicizing their exhibits including online catalogues and bios/artists statements as well as in local newspapers. They are one of many galleries in town, all having First Friday openings so large crowds are drawn. A unique aspect of this exhibit is that in order to get the most from their publicity, they request information a bit earlier than other venues we’ve used.

PROGRAMS AND MEETINGS

March 13th Meeting: Attributes of Color

At our March meeting, guest artist, Dan Michael, discussed how he uses value, hue, chroma and temperature when he paints both in studio and en plein air. He brought several of his paintings to illustrate his discussion. Art Spectrum sent us some sanded paper samples that were distributed to all members present with a challenge to create a complimentary color themed painting to share at the May meeting. A fun time was had by all!

May 8th Meeting: Color Schemes – Complimentary Colors

Cultural Arts Center – Studio D (2nd fl), Glen Allen, 6:30 pm

Complementary color schemes will be explored. Guest artist, Cate Kauffman, will discuss her approach to using complementary colors and demonstrate painting using a complementary color scheme. Come join us!*

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

ELIZABETH HOOD

As a child and teenager, I loved art and although exposed to many mediums and techniques, I focused primarily on drawing. During my working life, I dabbled in lots of crafty projects, but I never did anything in the fine art field. After thirty-five years in the corporate worlds of financial services, marketing and information technology, I retired and rekindled my interest in the visual arts.

My first teacher when I started was fellow MAPS member Nancy Tucker, who was teaching both watercolor and pastel. I did not like watercolor and I was convinced I wouldn't like pastels when I first tried it because it is so messy, but it was love at first try! I found that soft pastels allowed me to combine my drawing skills with my desire to learn how to use color in paintings. My primary medium is soft pastels, although I also work in graphite, colored pencil, acrylic, pen and ink, wood carving and occasionally watercolor. My subjects are varied and include landscapes, architectural structures, people, animals, florals and still life.

My best advice to people getting started in pastels is to get the best pastels and surfaces they can afford. Using student grade supplies and tools will be very frustrating in terms of results – and I speak from experience! Advice from Nancy when I first started and that I never forgot is that value is everything. I also think that it's important to connect with other pastel artists so to share knowledge and learnings; obviously, MAPS is a great resource for that.

In addition to being Technology Chair for MAPS, I am also a member of James River Art League and currently serve as President of that group (previously served multiple roles including Membership, Exhibits and Communications). I'm proud that I was part of the original group that started MAPS and am astounded by how far we've come in such a short time.

But getting the word and images of our paintings out to a broad audience is worth it, so start planning or painting what you want to show there. We will have the prospectus posted on our website soon, so watch for an email letting you know when it's there. It'll contain all the relevant dates and registration instructions. This show is open to all MAPS members, and to make it easy to participate we will be arranging carpools from Richmond to take paintings to drop off and bring them back at the exhibit's close. We'd encourage those of you living in other parts of the state to see if carpools from your areas can be arranged as well.

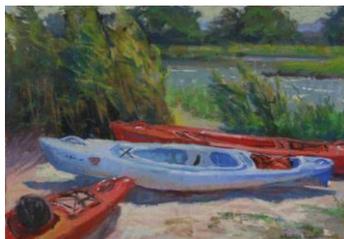

And what's the "more?" In my subject line? The survey results are in and our fantastic Technology Chair, Elizabeth Hood, has been busy compiling the results. Thanks so much to those who participated, over 60% of our members. We will learn a lot about how MAPS can best meet your needs from the responses. I plan to share some of the results at our May meeting, and in future newsletters and on our website.

Happy Painting,

Carol Cullinan, President
